

Does it seem like your peanut allergy controls your life?

The Matrix clinical research study may be an option for you.

Doctors in your area are studying an investigational vaccine for reaction to peanut allergy.

You may qualify for the Matrix clinical study if you are:

- 18 to 55 years old
- Allergic to peanuts

Qualified volunteers may receive:

- Compensation may be provided
- No-cost investigational study vaccine for peanut allergy
- No-cost study-related care from a study doctor

Health insurance and doctor referrals are not required.

The Matrix clinical study is enrolling today.
Contact us to learn more.

A Phase I, Randomized, Placebo-Controlled Study to Evaluate Safety, Tolerability and Immune Response in Adults Allergic to Peanut after Receiving Intradermal or Intramuscular Administration of ASP0892 (ARA-LAMP-vaX)