COVID's Impact on Families with Young Children (Apr 7)

The COVID-19 pandemic has represented a time of increased economic uncertainty and stress, perhaps especially for low-income parents. Professor Ariel Kalil, Daniel Levin Professor at the UChicago Harris School of Public Policy, will share her recent research on financial scarcity, stress, and inattention in low income parents of young children under the COVID crisis.

New Digital Methods in East Asian Studies (Apr 12)

The past isn't what it used to be – and that's a good thing. Computer power is allowing scholars of East Asian history and culture to approach their subjects in new and revealing ways, and we will hear from three incredibly innovative practitioners. Tune in to listen to them discuss how digital tools are transforming the study of East Asia, the humanities and social sciences more generally.
