ARCHAEOLOGICAL LOOTING: REALITIES AND POSSIBILITIES FOR NEW POLICY APPROACHES

WINTER CONFERENCE
FEBRUARY 27-28, 2015

Regenstein Library, Room 122
1100 E. 57th Street

Free and open to the public

Persons with disabilities who need an accommodation in order to participate in this event should contact the Neubauer Collegium for Culture and Society at collegium@uchicago.edu or 773.702.6030.

Theft of artifacts and artworks from archaeological sites represents a tragic, growing percentage of crimes against art. This conference brings together leading authorities to tackle these key questions: Who loots, and why? What is the impact of looting on objects, archaeological contexts, and nearby communities? How can we take steps to protect ancient art?

Hosted by University of Chicago Professor Larry Rothfield and Neubauer Collegium Fellow Fiona Rose-Greenland.

Speakers:

Colonel Matthew Bogdanos, U.S. Marine Corps, (Manhattan District Attorney), Neil Brodie (University of Glasgow), Duncan Chappell (University of Sydney), Tess Davis (University of Glasgow), Damien Huffer (Smithsonian Institute), Morag Kersel (DePaul University), Deborah Lehr (George Washington University), Christina Luke (Boston University), Simon Mackenzie (University of Glasgow), Alexander Nagel (Smithsonian Institute), Catherine Raymond (Northern Illinois University), Gil Stein (University of Chicago), Erin Thompson (John Jay College of Criminal Justice)

A workshop associated with The Past for Sale: New Approaches to the Study of Archaeological Looting, a project of the Neubauer Collegium for Culture and Society. Co-sponsored by the Cultural Policy Center, the Antiquities Coalition, and The Archaeological Institute of America, Chicago Society.
