Today, 80 is the new 60! Innovations in healthcare are allowing seniors to be more active than ever before. And they're not only in better health, they also have money to spend. Will they get an advanced degree? Will they start a new business, renovate their dream home or write their memoir? So many new possibilities exist for people who are living to 100. And for today's youth, how many start-ups can they launch before the age of 40, or degrees they might acquire before they are 35? Living a long life in the twenty-first century is creating a plethora of new opportunities.
