

Dr. Gregory L. Katzman

MD, MBA, FACR

Professor, Neuroradiology Vice Chair,
Radiology Operations Chief Quality Officer,
Chief Business Development Officer,
University of Chicago, Department of Radiology

Dr. Gregory L. Katzman is Professor and Vice-Chair of Radiology Operations at the University of Chicago, Department of Radiology. He also serves as the Department's Chief Quality Officer and Chief Business Development Officer. He has published 40 primary journal articles and reviews, 70 chapters in 17 textbooks, and 275 online case reports & case challenges. As an invited speaker, he has presented 83 invited lectures on three different continents, including visiting professorships in Lebanon as well as Brazil.

A graduate of Indiana University Medical School, Dr. Katzman completed a diagnostic radiology residency at Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis, Indiana. He went on to complete a neuroradiology fellowship at Georgetown University Medical Center in Washington DC, followed by a research neuroradiology fellowship at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, MD.

Dr. Katzman is a neuroradiologist with additional expertise in biomedical informatics, advanced MRI imaging of the brain, and pediatric neuroradiology. After completing an Executive MBA, his career path also includes significant administrative roles, with special proficiency in Leadership, Quality, Operational Workflow, as well as Business Intelligence Analytics.