CLINICAL MEDICAL ETHICS

The MacLean Center for Clinical Medical Ethics at The University of Chicago is the oldest program in clinical ethics in the world and one of the oldest university bioethics programs in the United States. Clinical Medical Ethics is a field that examines the practical, everyday ethical issues that arise in encounters among patients, doctors, nurses, allied health workers, and health care institutions. The goal of clinical ethics is to improve patient care and patient outcomes. Since the founding of the MacLean Center and largely through the efforts of its faculty members and fellowship graduates, the study of Clinical Medical Ethics has expanded from the bedside to encompass virtually all aspects of health care. Many of these issues will be explored during this 25th Anniversary MacLean Conference including Global Health, Patient Decision-Making, Research Ethics, End-of-Life Care, Organ Transplantation, Pediatric Ethics, Health Reform, and Surgical Ethics.

We are delighted to welcome back more than 50 former fellows to speak at this year's conference and to help us celebrate the 25th Anniversary of the MacLean Fellows Conference.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This conference remembers Dorothy Jean MacLean, who helped create the MacLean Center and was deeply committed to its work. D.J. MacLean believed that education was the best way to improve the world and throughout her life supported many leading educational institutions. The Conference organizers wish to acknowledge and thank Barry and Mary Ann MacLean, co-chairs of the Center's Advisory Board, for their sustained commitment to the Center and for their help in making this conference possible. Their support has enabled the MacLean Center to improve patient care by focusing on practical clinical ethics and the doctor-patient relationship.

We also wish to acknowledge the Center's distinguished Advisory Board and the following individuals for their support of the MacLean Center: Lindy Bergman, Kay and Matthew Bucksbaum, Martha and Bruce Clinton and the Clinton Family Foundation, Janet and Craig Duchossois, Ann Dudley and Stan Goldblatt, Keith and Rodney Goldstein, Joan Harris and the Irving Harris Foundation, Connie and Dennis Keller and the Keller Family Foundation, Rachel Kohler and Mark Hoplamazian, Richard and Michelle Parrillo, Carole and Gordon Segal, Brenda Shapiro and the Shapiro Family Foundation, Bryan Traubert and The Pritzker-Traubert Family Foundation, and Sarita Warshawsky.

We especially wish to thank our outstanding faculty as well as all former and current fellows for making the MacLean Center the leading program in clinical medical ethics in the U.S. and internationally.

Special thanks to Kimberly Conner, Fiona Malone, Adam Nation and Tae Yeon Kim for their dedication and assistance in organizing this conference.
