

CLINICAL MEDICAL ETHICS

The MacLean Center for Clinical Medical Ethics at the University of Chicago is the oldest and largest program in clinical ethics in the world. Clinical medical ethics is a field that examines the practical, everyday ethical issues that arise in encounters among patients, doctors, nurses, allied health workers, and health care institutions. The goal of clinical medical ethics is to improve patient care and outcomes and also clinicians' satisfaction with their work. Since the founding of the MacLean Center in 1984, the Center has trained more than 450 clinical ethics fellows in a one year full-time or part-time training program. Current and former MacLean Center fellows and faculty have published more than 200 books. In November 2016, Dr. Siegler and the MacLean Center received the prestigious Meyerhoff Award from the Johns Hopkins Berman Institute of Bioethics. The award states: "The training program established by you has had a greater impact than any other clinical ethics training program in the world."

ONLINE REGISTRATION

This conference is open to the public and free of charge. Our guest speaker is Dr. Paul Farmer, the co-founder of Partners-in-Health. We have a limited number of seats in Mandel Hall. Early registration is encouraged. Priority will be given to MacLean Center faculty and former fellows.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This conference remembers Dorothy Jean MacLean, who helped create the MacLean Center and was deeply committed to its work. D.J. MacLean believed that education was the best way to improve the world and throughout her life supported many leading educational institutions. The Conference organizers wish to acknowledge and thank Barry and the late Mary Ann MacLean, who, for 25 years, served as co-chairs of the Center's Advisory Board. We also thank the MacLean family for their continuing support of the Center and this annual conference. We want to recognize the MacLean Center's new Chair of the Board, Rachel Kohler, for her guidance as the Center moves forward.

We wish to acknowledge the Center's distinguished Advisory Board and the following individuals for their support of the MacLean Center: the late Lindy Bergman, Kay and the late Matthew Bucksbaum, Martha and Bruce Clinton and the Clinton Family Foundation, Janet and Craig Duchossois, Ann Dudley and Stan Goldblatt, Keith and Rodney Goldstein, Joan Harris and the Irving Harris Foundation, Connie and Dennis Keller and the Keller Family Foundation, Rachel Kohler and Mark Hoplamazian, Richard and Michelle Parrillo, Carole and Gordan Segal, Brenda Shapiro and the Shapiro Family Foundation, Bryan Traubert and the Pritzker-Traubert Family Foundation, and the late Sarita Warshawsky. We especially wish to thank our outstanding faculty as well as all former and current fellows and faculty for making the MacLean Center the leading program in clinical medical ethics in the United States and internationally.
