TOWARD A FRAMEWORK FOR CRITICAL ENGAGEMENT WITH CRIME CONTROL POLICY IN TRAFFICKING CULTURAL OBJECTS

MONDAY, NOV 16
12:00 p.m.

Neubauer Collegium

5701 S. Woodlawn Ave.

Free and open to the public

Persons with disabilities who need an accommodation in order to participate in this event should contact the Neubauer Collegium at collegium@uchicago.edu or 773.795.2329

This talk is presented in association with the Neubauer Collegium project, The Past for Sale

A Discussion featuring Professor Simon Mackenzie (Department of Criminology, University of Glasgow) and Dr. Neil Brodie and Dr. Donna Yates (Scottish Centre for Crime and Justice Research, University of Glasgow)

The Trafficking Culture research group (www.traffickingculture.org) gathers, analyses and publishes information on the global traffic in looted cultural objects. This talk will review some of the project's work over the last four years and develop various components of a crime prevention framework to advance thinking about controlling the illicit market. Regional ethnographic case study evidence gathered by the project will be reviewed and used to explore some of the regulatory challenges. Using contemporary examples of looting and conflict, the speakers will reflect on reasons why current crime prevention policy fails in this area, and propose improved approaches.
