

What is the Rheaply Platform?

The Rheaply Platform is your organization's new web-app that helps you rent, donate, sell, and share equipment and supplies across all departments and teams. By connecting people and their resources, your organization creates a local circular economy that results in a more resilient, sustainable, and low-carbon campus.

Why use the Rheaply Platform?

Sitting in buildings and rooms across your entire organization are valuable resources that other members would happily use today if only they knew about them! By increasing the visibility of your equipment and supplies, you become a champion for collaboration, sustainability, and cost-savings. To get started, take a look around your environment for items that won't be used by your team and can be rescued by others.

Moving Items

Once the two parties decide on furniture or equipment they would like, they need to work together to determine how to move the items from one location on campus to another.

The University has Preferred Suppliers for moving services. To view the list, visit the UChicago Intranet link <https://intranet.uchicago.edu/tools-and-resources/financial-resources/i-want-to-buy-something/what-is-the-preferred-way-to-process-my-order/preferred-process-moving-and-relocation>

If you need something moved, you can get a quote and submit a purchase order yourself to one of the below movers. Alternatively, you may work through the Work Center by contacting the team with the details (and GL account to charge against) and the Work Center will help arrange the furniture move through a Service Request.

Generally, a move of any type starts around $200 and goes up from there (additional time, high-rise or stairs, special equipment, more people needed to support, etc.).
