To the members of the Independent Review Committee:

Thank you for your thorough and thoughtful work on the review of the events of Feb. 24. I have received and read your review. The University of Chicago Police Department had already begun addressing a number of elements you cite in the review. My leadership and I will carefully consider the other recommendations as we look for ways to continue to improve our policies and practices. And as you know, in response to this particular case, UCPD has been working closely with Campus and Student Life, the Library, other administrative units, students and faculty members to address a wide variety of issues that have come to light. I appreciate your contributions to that effort.
