Xiang Zhu Wins ASA Award

Xiang Zhu's work on enrichment analysis of genome-wide association summary statistics has won an ASA student paper award. Xiang is advised by Prof. Matthew Stephens and will present this paper at the 2017 Joint Statistical Meeting in Baltimore. This work is supported by grants from the Gordon and Betty Moore Foundation and the National Institutes of Health.